Hemorrhoid Causes Hemorrhoids are a serious problem for a good percentage of the population bringing pain, irritation and bleeding. Thankfully there has been a large amount of research done on why the varicose veins in the rectal area become enlarged and problematic....

Many people, around 39% of the population, will suffer from hemorrhoids at some point in their life time. Most of these people will have no idea why they got them. For a few, they may clear up and go away on their own, but for those who seem to have chronic problems it's important to know how you got them in the first place.

The best way to finding a sure fireplace cure would be to first go back to the root of the problem, that way you are certain that the therapy you are using is fixing the problem and not just dealing with the signs and symptoms as it happens in most cases. So in the first place our "how to cure hemorrhoids in 48 hours", task it would be beneficial to find the cause of this concern.

Drink Lots of Water

If you are prone to hemorrhoids it would be good to make it 8 to 10 glasses a day. Add a lot of fiber rich food in your diet. Fiber is very good in cleaning up the digestive tract and helping one to possess less strenuous "pooping" times. Exercise regularly for better weight. If there is already swelling and pain in your anus, use creams to protect it from additional infection.

Piles do not genuinely have definite explanation as to the hows and whys of their appearance, except that in most cases it has been learned that straining during defecation is a factor that often results to "piles attack". Pushing during bowel movement can result from a number of things like diarrhea, constipation, being overweight and also pregnancy; this being the case one safe way to rid yourself of hemorrhoids and even prevent its recurrence would be to take not of staying away from its probable causes from the onset. I am not saying that you should prevent pregnancy of course, will one should be mindful of promoting a better and easier bowel time.

Solution: Get Off Your Own Bottom

Sounds easy, but for a lot of it's hard to do. Try to stand and move around at least once a hour even if it means working standing up at your desk for a couple of minutes. For those people who are confined, even the act of taking this lightly, if you're unable to stand up, can relieve some of the pressure off of your bottom.

Hemorrhoid Cause 2: You Eat Too Much Junk Food

If you have a busy life like me you may be eating out of the selling machines at work a lot or maybe you're just a junk food enthusiast. A lack of raw natural food in your diet can cause a hard stool, which may lead to constipation and eventually, hemorrhoids.

Dont Expect Laxatives or Even a Stool Softeners to Fix a Hemorrhoid

Laxatives are not a long-term solution to the constipation issue that brought about the hemorrhoid in the first place. Also, while a laxative will make the passing of stool easier, it doesnt actually fix the actual hemorrhoid. That simply cuts down on the symptoms.

Consume foods that are high in fiber to help you deal with hemorrhoids. Fruit like watermelon and grapes, as well as vegetables like cabbage and okra, will soften your stool and make it easier for you in order to use the rest room. Continue to include these food types in your diet even after you find relief, they will help prevent the hemorrhoids from returning.

Hemorrhoid Cause 3: Over the Counter Hemorrhoid Aids

Yes, some popular hemorrhoid treatments such as fiber supplements as well as medicated creams can actually make your hemorrhoid situation worse. The fiber is prepared and doesn't really do you a bit of good and the ointments can actually further inflame the area.

See If Any of These Potential Causes Problem to You
