- Swelling may not be decreased much.

Vitamin B is a Great Treatment You can Use to Help Treat Your Hemorrhoids

Unlike other vitamins which you would take orally, you should apply vitamin b (crushed power or liquid) directly to the infected location in your anus. This could help you to significantly reduce the size of your hemorrhoids.

Should you and the doctor decide on a hemorrhoidectomy, the pain, downtime, and perhaps even embarrassment are all worth it because this is as close to a cure as you will get. It may help you to get rid of bleeding or clotted hemorrhoid once and for all.

But Before We Do that, Let's Define Thrombosis

It is defined as a condition where a blood clot varieties anywhere in the body. It can be in your arm after an injury or anywhere in your body. It's the same problem that can cause strokes, where blood clots lodge in the blood vessels of the brain and produce impaired circulation. The same thing happens in hemorrhoids, which is why bleeding hemorrhoid treatment is necessary. Thrombosed hemorrhoids usually look like little sacs, but tend to solidify into a raisin consistency as the blood clot forms in the hemorrhoid.

- One of the quickest and most effective ways of managing hemorrhoids at home is ice.
- Because it can numb quickly and it also reduces tissue swelling, it could be the treatment of choice when in a hurry.

Ice cubes are usually your first ally. The longer you can leave them in place, the better it will be because the ice will not only help numb the swollen tissues, it will eventually help to reduce the painful swelling as well.
